Mr Bean was preparing to go on holiday. He placed six cans of baked beans inside his suitcase. Then, he packed his towel, shirts, and slippers. Mr Bean tried to close the suitcase, but it would not close! He then unpacked everything from the suitcase. Mr Bean decided to take only four cans of baked beans and a small towel. He also decided to pack his small swimming trunks, one slipper, and one item of underwear. Mr Bean could not decide which shirt to take. He finally chose the green one instead of the red one. He broke his toothbrush in half and squeezed the toothpaste out of the tube. Then, Mr Bean decided that his trousers were too long to pack, so he cut them in half. But then he saw that he already had a pair of shorts that were the same colour. Then Mr Bean wanted to pack his teddy bear, but he couldn’t decide whether to cut him up or not. So he finally packed his teddy bear without cutting it. With great difficulty, Mr Bean closed his small suitcase. Only to realise that he had a big one all along!
